We may charge you a fee for supplying the requested information. In addition, there are situations in which we may need to deny your request. In the event of such a denial, we will notify you of the reasons, and advise you of further steps you may take concerning further review or complaint.

HEALTH INFORMATION EXCHANGE DISCLOSURE

This Disclosure describes the use of Health Information Exchange (“HIE”) technology at SwedishAmerican Hospital, including SwedishAmerican Medical Group, SwedishAmerican Home Health Care and SwedishAmerican Medical Center Belvidere (“SwedishAmerican”).

What is Health Information Exchange or “HIE”?

Health Information Exchange or “HIE” is technology that allows your doctor, specialists, hospitals, clinics, and/or labs to share your health information over a secure computer network. Allowing other providers and professionals to electronically access your health information can improve the quality of your care, and perhaps save your life.

Why Should My Health Information Be Shared?

Currently, your health information may exist in many different locations. For instance, if you visit a specialist, your primary care doctor may not have access to that information. Health care providers can make better decisions about your care when they have access to up-to-date health information such as medications, allergies, lab tests, etc.

What Types of Health Information Are Shared?

Unless you opt out, most of your health information will be available to other providers through the HIE. This may include sensitive information, such as HIV/AIDS, genetic testing, mental health, and sexual assault records. The law prohibits some information, such as certain drug and alcohol abuse treatment records, from being sent through an HIE.

Am I Required to Participate?

No. You may opt out of HIE participation by contacting the SwedishAmerican Privacy Officer using the information provided below. You may change your mind and opt in later if you choose.

Are There Exceptions to My Opt Out Rights?

Yes. In medical emergency situations, providers may access your medical records as needed to treat you. Your opt-out request cannot apply retroactively to exchanges that happened before it was processed. An opt-out request cannot be processed for only a portion of your health information; thus, if you opt out, your entire SwedishAmerican and UW Health medical record will become unavailable to other providers.

If you have any questions or concerns about HIE, or if you would like to opt-out of HIE participation, you may contact the SwedishAmerican Privacy Officer by telephone at (779) 696-7225, or in writing to the attention of our SwedishAmerican Privacy Officer at 1401 E. State Street, Rockford, IL 61104. You may also visit www.swedishamerican.org for more information or to download HIE forms.
